

Adventures in Reading
Unit 6 Review

abundant: more than enough

The farmers are excited because their crops are abundant this year.

compatible: two things or people that go or work well together

To charge your cell phone, you will need a compatible cord.

consumer: a person who buys things or uses services

Angela is a regular consumer of coffee; she drinks several cups each day.

convenient: easy to use or get to

The Internet is a convenient source of information, but it is not always accurate.

crucial: very important

The coach made a crucial decision in the final minutes of the game.

fluctuate: to change unevenly

The number of people visiting the zoo can fluctuate daily.

minimum: the smallest number or amount possible

You must be a minimum of forty-eight inches tall to ride the roller coaster.

obtain: to get something

The speaker began his presentation with a joke to obtain his audience's attention.

procedure: the normal way of doing something or getting something done

Our health teacher taught us the correct procedure for washing our hands.

prominent: somewhere or something that is easily seen

If you put your car keys in a prominent place, they will be easy to find.

pursue: to work hard in order to achieve something

Jessica's drama coach encouraged her to pursue an acting career.

supplement: something added to something else in order to improve it

Learning new words will help to supplement your vocabulary.